“R&D&I as an opportunity. Funding options”

Research, Development and Innovation (R&D&I) are key elements to address the challenges of the day and future in the water field. The existence of Programmes supporting and funding the R&D&I in corporate sector provides an excellent opportunity to deal with pioneering projects that allow us to keep and improve industrial competitiveness. Also, these Programmes help the industries to meet ever increasing environmental requirements, making them more sustainable. In line with this, the new European Framework Programme for Research and Innovation (Horizon Europe 2021-2027) strengthens the previous range of possibilities, with a clear focus on economic, environmental and social impacts.
